

THE ADMIRED LEADERSHIP INSTITUTE®

2016 Session: Sunday, 9/25 - Thursday 9/29

What is Admired Leadership®?

Admired Leadership® can be summed up simply: excellence has routines. Truly world-class leaders believe that it is consistency of action that drives results and builds authentic relationships with others, whether as a leader, team member, friend, spouse, or parent. Admired Leaders® are many different people, but those people are all the same.

A mastery of leadership requires a complex application of logic and emotion, skill and discipline, strategic thinking and authentic action, balancing a results orientation with the human need to connect with those you lead. It is difficult to achieve both halves. We have spent over twenty-five years identifying and scrutinizing the small handful of leaders with a reputation for achieving extraordinary results and developing loyal relationships, learning what makes them tick, and isolating the behaviors and routines that make them extraordinary.

What we have learned about these leaders can help us design our own leadership, and this knowledge forms the foundation for the Admired Leadership® Institute. The Institute provides participants with a unique and memorable environment to explore how to be a better leader. It is designed to create a rich dialogue among peer-like leaders who can share organizational challenges, exchange innovative ideas, and better themselves.

SUZANNE PETERSON, Ph.D., is an executive coach who specializes in leadership success. Dr. Peterson has served as Professor at Miami University, the University of Cincinnati, and Arizona State University. Her work has appeared in top business and psychology journals and she has presented her leadership ideas to a variety of audiences worldwide.

The Western Experience

In addition to the intensive working sessions, the program also hosts several activities that embrace the culture of the American West and the magnificent landscape and location. Such activities include guided fly-fishing, a trail hike to Butch Cassidy Arch, a horseback ride in Capital Reef National Park, and Western barbecues. Participants may also choose not to participate in any of these activities.

Who Should Attend?

The ideal Admired Leadership Institute® participant should be a leader with current significant responsibility and “high potential” for increasing leadership responsibility. Because of the active nature of each session, a leader with an outdoor orientation is recommended for the program.

Logistics and Enrollment

Participants are transported to and from the Lodge at Red River Ranch in Torrey and Salt Lake City airport via chartered plane arranged by CRA. Some past attendees to the program have chosen to extend their travel in the area before or following their session. We are happy to make recommendations and assist with travel plans as needed.
